AT COUNCIL MEETING

Good News And Bad News Heard

There was both good news and bad news for prospective builders coming from the City Council this week.

The good news was that councilmen chucked the long-discussed idea of imposing a housing moratorium -- for the time being -- in favor of merely conducting a study of multiple-residential zoning in the city.

The bad news? Anyone building a home in Upland must now pay a provocative-sounding new fee -- a "bedroom tax" -- costing the builder of an average home an extra $125.

Although city officials generally conceded that homebuyers or renters would end up paying the fee in the end, rather than the builder, there was even some small measure of consolation in that.

All revenues derived from the fee -- T. T. Nowak, chairman of the city's environmental committee, estimates as much as $75,000 to $100,000 next year -- will go for the acquisition and development of park sites in Upland.

On the matter of the moratorium, Councilman George Gibson moved to have the planning commission conduct a study of multiple-residential densities as a compromise measure, when the concept of a four-month moratorium met stiff opposition from Councilmen Harold Bailin and A. M. Hawkins, who seriously questioned its purpose.

Gibson said, though, that if there was a rush by developers to build under current multiple-residential densities while the study was going on, he would seek an emergency moratorium to prevent construction.

When the idea of a moratorium was first brought up in mid-April, City Manager Elwin Alder revealed, the city was suddenly besieged with requests for building permits, issuing permits to construct 688 units within a 30-day period.

Bailin balked at the idea of a moratorium because he felt the council was considering no specific action during the period of the housing freeze. But he totally rejected the moratorium idea when Planning Director Rod Anderson revealed that only 50 to 60 acres of multiple-residential zoning remained in the city.

"Is that what all this hullabaloo has been about?" Bailin gasped. "Just 50 to 60 acres?"

Hawkins opposed the freeze, saying, "Our job is to guide development -- never at any time to stop it."

Councilman John McCarthy, echoing Gibson's and Alder's fears of a rush to build under old densities, sought a 90-day moratorium while studying multiple-residential densities.

Tony Malone, manager of the Upland Chamber of Commerce, told councilmen that they needn't fear a rush to build apartments. Financial institutions are hesitant to back apartment projects in Upland at the present time because of apartment overbuilding in the city and the high number of vacancies, he said.

Acting on behalf of the chamber, which went on record as opposing a moratorium, Malone asked Mayor Abner Haldeman to appoint an advisory committee to study the housing situation, and admonished the council to "get moving instead of talking."

Haldeman retorted that he was trying to run the council as a democracy rather than a dictatorship "and that always takes longer."

The vote to direct the planning commission to begin studying the densities was unanimous.

Bailin, the builders and landowners, and the Chamber of Commerce teamed up to oppose the "bedroom tax" -- which is actually a business license fee.

The councilman charged that the fee didn't hurt the large builder, but would pose a hardship on an individual building on his own lot. He said that although the idea of raising park funds was tempting, he felt "the cry of poverty we've been making in Upland is not true. We're reasonably well off."

The license fee imposes a maximum $125 charge for each dwelling unit, based on the number of bedrooms. Cost is $70 for a one-bedroom unit, with $25 extra for each additional bedroom, to the maximum. Payment of fees will be required at the time a building permit is issued.

Landowner Mike Kelber charged that the measure was an effort to "keep developers out of Upland," and said it would hurt longtime landholders, while Bill Matreyek, a builder, called the fee "double taxation."

Eugene Bello, a realtor, builder and resident, told councilmen that the homebuyer or renter would end up paying the fee -- not the developer. He said that city inspection fees and permits were already costing from $531 to $696 on each single family residence being built in Upland, and that the buyer was bearing that cost. "Another $125 isn't going to kill an agent or a developer," Gibson said. "People still keep coming here in spite of the obstacles we keep putting in their way," he said, grinning.

The city of Newark, N. J., first conceived the "bedroom tax" idea, City Manager Alder explained, and its legality has been upheld by the courts. Now several local cities, including San Dimas, have adopted the idea as a method to gain revenues for capital outlays.

MESSY EATING -- Heather Switzer, 4, finds that eating tacos is no easy task. She's trying to develop a taste for Mexican food in time for Saturday's community Mexican dinner, hosted by service clubs, to raise funds to equip a park at Baseline and Vineyard. She needn't worry, though. Tacos won't be on the menu for the dinner, to be held at Alta Loma High School. The fare will consist of enchiladas, rice, beans, salad and cookies--which are all considerably easier for a four-year-old to handle.

THEIR DREAM COME TRUE -- All the experience and dreams from 16 years of building miniature golf courses has gone into this 6-1/2-acre miniature golf (below), a potential customer above) and recreation center next to the San Bernardino Freeway in Upland. The builder-owners, Jim and John Huish, hope to open the 18-hole outdoor course and game rooms next week.

'Largest' Mini Golf Course Opens Here

Justice--From Both Sides Now

With summer's heat already setting in, an Upland city official has warned about potential danger from faulty or ill-sheltered pool equipment.

Chief Building Official Robert Sullivan is cautioning residents to check their filter-pump motors, poolside lights and appliances to prevent a severe--and perhaps fatal--shock.

"This danger is so serious," Sullivan explained, "that the National Electrical Code now requires that all electrical equipment at storable backyard pools be connected to a protective device called a ground fault interrupter."

The device, he said, electronically senses current leakage, and cuts off the power in 1/40th of a second--faster than a heartbeat.

Few people realize how little current it takes to kill a person who is grounded--in contact with water, earth, concrete, wet wood or metal, Sullivan pointed out.

"This is hard to believe, but an able-bodied man under certain circumstances can be severely injured by the tiny bit of current one little 7 1/2 watt Christmas tree bulb uses."

"This is about 60/1,000th of an ampere. Small children may be killed at this level."

The amount of current used by a quarter-horsepower filter-pump motor for a small pool is more than enough to electrocute a wet bather if defective insulation or damage should cause it to leak into his body, Sullivan said.

The ground fault interrupter is relatively easy, efficient and inexpensive, he said. It attaches to any outdoor receptacle box and provides its own protected receptacle.

Sullivan says his department will strictly enforce the city code, which requires such a device--"for one very important reason: namely, because human life, and especially the lives of children and young people, are at stake."

Additional information is available by contacting the city's building department.

CAN'T SEE THE FOREST FOR THE TREES -- Laura Stewart of Upland and Marci Burke of Alta Loma, are winners of "A Day in the Forest" contest, sponsored by the State Women's clubs. Ms. Billie Sibbey, conservation chairman of the San Bernardino District, looks on as girls explore the pine cones and needles of the pine tree.

Cal and Nita McElwain of Upland are taking care of West End justice from both sides. She dons a uniform each morning, straps on a pistol and heads for her job as senior clerk in charge of warranty procedures in the San Bernardino County Marshal's office.

He, and 18 other citizens scrutinize county officials and their offices, audit books of county agencies, and--if they find any hanky-panky--issue indictments as members of the county grand jury.

The mother of six, Ms. McElwain received her appointment as special deputy, and recently became the first woman president of the San Bernardino County Marshal's Association.

She fills her spare time with police science classes, rigorous, weaponless defense training such as judo, and is a crack shot with a Smith and Wesson .38 pistol.

Her husband received his grand jury appointment on Jan. 10 from Superior Court Judge John P. Knauf.

McElwain has been a metallurgical control tester in the tin mill at Kaiser Steel in Fontana for 13 years, and is his firm's first hourly employee to serve on the grand jury.

In the dismal economy of the Depression years, miniature golf was one of the few bright spots.

While great financial empires tottered and collapsed, nearly $250,000,000 was invested, equipping vacant lots with pint-sized links and hazards.

Droves of people tried their skill at putting through pipes and slicing out of sandtraps, and created such a demand that 25,000 courses were built in 1930 alone.

That fever soon passed--but it may recur locally next week, as Upland becomes the home of what its builders call "the world's largest miniature golf course."

The project, located next to the San Bernardino Freeway between the Mountain and Central Aves. offramps, is more of a recreational center than a golf course.

When completed, it will feature three 18-hole outdoor courses, the world's first indoor courses (there will be two of those), plus a billiard room, a game room including pinball machines and other skill games, a snack bar, gift shop and photo shop.

All of this will operate round-the-clock, to provide recreation isn't on an 8-to-5 schedule.

The project is the dream of two brothers, Jim and John Huish, who've incorporated all their best ideas from 16 successful years as builders of miniature golf courses. They already own and operate courses in Anaheim across from Disneyland, in San Diego, Fountain Valley and Redwood City.

But none even begins to match the scale of their Upland project, they say.

"We've put all our ideas and dreams into this one operation," John explains. "We haven't cut a corner," he boasts, and estimates that by the time the 6 1/2 acre project is completed next year, with the addition of two outdoor courses, total cost will reach $1 million.

The brothers have reproduced all of their favorite "obstacles"--those bright, odd-shaped little buildings--from their other courses, including the little red schoolhouse that is their trademark. Except in Upland, they've doubled the size of everything.

Ribboning the grounds are streams and rivers, and 34 waterfalls.

The 30,000 square-foot building housing the indoor courses and other recreational facilities is all concrete "tilt-up" and went up in two days.

The building--which is the same size as a football field--will have heating and air conditioning to accommodate year-round play.

The outdoor course is scheduled to open next week, with construction expected to be completed on the indoor complex by mid-July. Parking will be provided for 140 vehicles.

Serving as general manager of the complex will be Jack Kirtland, with Gert Jensen as manager. Both are brothers-in-law of the Huishes, and have worked in the design and construction of the project.

Local high school and college students will make up the bulk of the staff, John said. Hiring has already been completed.

John Huish believes that the course will draw both those aficionados who made miniature golf so popular in the Depression and their offspring.

"We get 'em from 14 to 40 mainly," he explains, "but you discover nobody's really too young or too old to enjoy the game."

"The adults who haven't played for years are the ones who are really surprised when they come to a place like ours. All they remember are those kinda primitive courses."

The center will cater to groups and parties--and that all-night worker, who Huish says "gets off work in the middle of the night and is ready for some entertainment, but can't find anything open at that hour."

Because of their freeway location, the Huishes hope to attract a clientele from a 30-mile radius.

"People are rediscovering miniature golf," John says. "It gives people a feeling of getting out--not getting cramped in. And it's kind of a family sport."

Upland Man Now General

A former Upland man has become the youngest veterinarian to attain the rank of brigadier general in the Army veterinary corps. He is Dr. Charles V. L. Ella, 49, commanding officer of veterinary services in the Pentagon under the direction of the office of the surgeon-general.

A graduate of Texas A & M University, he is vice president of the American Board of Veterinary Public Health.

He will return to the West End some time this month to inspect Army veterinarians' efforts in the massive government program to eradicate deadly Newcastle disease in Southern California poultry.

DAR Sets Final Pre-Summer Meeting

The San Antonio chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will mark their final meeting before summer vacation Wednesday with a special Flag Day program.

The covered-dish luncheon will begin at 12:30 p.m. at the Villa Mobilehome clubhouse, 5580 Moreno St., Montclair, with Ms. J. Bell hosting.

Members of the chapter will display flags they have acquired, highlighted by the 38-star flag which flew over the Colorado state capitol when that state joined the Union in 1876. Ms. M. Gottfried and her sister, Williamene Harnly, own the banner.

A new slate of officers, headed by Ms. C. Kissick as regent, will be installed by Ms. O. Thomson for a two-year term. Others taking office are Ms. E. Dahlstrom, first vice regent; Ms. J. Glasson, second vice regent; Ms. N. Carman, recording secretary; Ms. L. St. Amant, corresponding secretary; Juanita Freeman, treasurer; Ms. J. Visnak, registrar; Winifred Vernor, historian; and Ms. G. Geer, parliamentarian.

Church Urges 'Prayer Power'

West End members of the Church of Christ, Scientist are among those in 3,200 member churches throughout the world being asked to "bring to bear the immense power for good, native to prayer" to solve the problems in Southeast Asia.

Ms. L. Allen of the Ontario church said the call to prayer was issued by the Christian Science board of directors, and has been repeated editorially in the Christian Science Monitor, the denomination's international daily newspaper.

"The seed of peace can take root only in the prayerful thought of men," the editorial stated. "Peace has always been elusive. But by men's raising their vision above the evidence of battle to the spiritual norm of harmony and peace, the inspiration and courage to secure peace will be found."

"No one can outline for another how to pray," the board members' statement read, "nor do we in our prayers attempt to outline specific solutions for human conditions. But let this not prevent us from joining in the deepest confidence that prayer does avail."

WE TIP: It's Becoming A Bad Trip For Local Pushers

Chaffey Recital Set

Chaffey College's Ralph Strane and student Dan Light will join vocal and piano talents in a recital in the little theater at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Strane, creative arts division chairman, began his professional career on the musical stage and has had considerable experience as a singer as well as actor.

His selections will be "Il Lamento di Federico" from "L'Arlesiana" (Cilea), "M'appari tutti amor" from "Martha" (Flotow) and "Ah, Moon of My Delight" from "In a Persian Garden" (Liza Lehman). He will feature also "Do Not Go, My Love" (Richard Hageman) and "La Donna e Mobile" from "Rigoletto" (Verdi).

The accompanist on the piano will be Light, a freshman from Fontana, who will perform some solos of his own. Among the solos will be "Sonata in G Major" (Beethoven), "Polichinelle" (Rachmaninoff) and "Toccata" (Khatchaturian).

This Fontanan studies under Howard Lindholm, San Bernardino, and teaches piano on the side. He recently placed as a finalist in the Redlands Bowl Young Artists Festival sponsored by the Music Teachers Association of California.

Light was one of the rehearsal accompanists for Chaffey's production of "Man of La Mancha."

The Strane-Light recital will be open to the public at no charge for admission. Music professor Joyce Shannon is arranging the program.

If tipster GA 193 comes forward, $100 awaits him.

His tip about a drug pusher at Upland High School was enough to bring successful court action against the youth--so he'll be the first to earn a reward under the WE TIP (We Turn In Pushers) program in the West End.

Most encouraging about the incident, say WE TIP officials, was the fact that the drug suspect told police since WE TIP's founding, a pusher "couldn't trust anyone."

Although the youth was found guilty of only possession of dangerous drugs in San Bernardino juvenile court, explained Bill Brownell, coordinating chairman, "it was still determined by the central task force (governing WE TIP) that a public hazard was discovered in time to avert death by overdose or another drug-related tragedy which has become so common in this society."

"Information given to the police by the youth involved that perhaps society has gained twice by the efforts of WE TIP. The suspect stated to police that he had been a supplier of drugs to his school for the past year with no problems, until the WE TIP program was started, but now he couldn't trust anyone, even if he had a desire to start pushing drugs again."

Reports are being received from police in areas as far distant as Los Angeles, noting the impact of this program.

Tipster GA 193 has until July 5 to go to the designated drop point, identify himself with his three-part fictitious name and code number, and receive his money in cash.

He is one of 488 callers from 58 cities who have phoned the secret tip-line since it opened in February. Although officials admit many of the callers are cranks, WE TIP has still been responsible for contributing vital data to 11 arrests so far, with another case under investigation.

More importantly, the organizers say, it has thrown local pushers into a state of paranoia, by promising tipsters complete anonymity, and rewards up to $500 in cash.

Persons having information about drug pushers can simply call one of two secret numbers operating from unknown locations--983-9611 or 213-963-1115.

Trained personnel man the phones, take the information, and pass it on to law enforcement officials, who will investigate.

A code name and number are assigned, and instructions are given about a drop point. If the information results in the arrest and conviction of a pusher, the informant can earn from $100 to $500 in cash, depending on the severity of the case, while retaining his anonymity.

A group of Ontario businessmen worked out the program six months ago to combat the drug epidemic in the West End. Since then, the program has spread to 17 cities in four counties.

But money and manpower are still needed. Additional information is available by writing WE TIP at P.O. Box 524, Ontario 91761, or by calling 984-4112.

TO BROOKSIDE

Gallo Winery Plant Sold Here

Brookside Vineyard Co. of Guasti has acquired the 3,900,000 gallon plant of the E. & J. Gallo Southern California Winery in Cucamonga.

The acquisition boosts Brookside's local holdings to three plants, which, with its other facility in Sacramento, are capable of a more than 8,000,000-gallon capacity.

The 140-year-old Brookside firm is acknowledged as California's oldest business enterprise operated continuously under the management of a single family, spanning four generations.

Philo P. Biane is president of the firm. His son, Pierre, who serves as vice president, will be general partner in the new facility.

Other owners, all members of a limited partnership, include the elder Biane, Judge William Walk, Anthony Arnold, Eugene DeYoung and Brookside Vineyard Co.

Bill Wieland will continue in his capacity as winemaker and plant manager, with Phil Modica continuing as grape purchaser. The plant will primarily be used to produce premium red and white dry wines, ports and sherries.

Brookside is one of the pioneers in the branch winery retailing concept, increasing its number of retail wine cellars and tasting rooms in the past 20 years to 30--16 in Southern California, 12 in Northern California and two in Arizona.

Under the concept, Brookside sells its wines for retailing in other wineries throughout the state.

The products are marketed under the brand names of Brookside, Assumption Abbey, E. Vache, Old Guasti and Vin De Biane Fres.

Brookside has grown from the old stone "home winery" in Guasti, with a capacity of about 1 1/2 million gallons, to a complex including facilities on A St.

The secondary plant on Haven Ave. in Cucamonga has a capacity of nearly 2 million gallons, with the Sacramento plant accommodating 940,000 gallons.

Crown Announces Art Show Here

Crown Toyota at 1151 W. Foot-hill Blvd., Upland, is sponsoring an art show featuring Ruth Ann Basler of La Canada, as artist of the month.

Born in Chicago, raised in Glendale and now residing in La Canada with her family Ruth Ann Basler has, in a few short years, become one of California's most outstanding artists.

Her paintings are owned by some of the nation's leading collectors. Glendale Federal has just added one of her large florals to their permanent collection of California art. Ms. Basler has been "Artist of the Month" at the Bullock's stores and had one woman shows in Descanso Gardens, the Bradbury building, in Los Angeles, and many of the Southland's leading galleries.

In continual demand for demonstrations and as a judge for art competitions, she also has served as Johnnie Ray's co-chairman for the Hear Foundation's celebrity "Artists and Models" show each year. Her painting of "Christ and the Children" hangs in the narthex of the La Canada Presbyterian Church, where scenes from her recent trip to the Holyland are also on display.

Graduating from Glendale schools, Ms. Basler bypassed taking art courses since her interest at that time was in the journalistic field. Marriage and motherhood postponed any career ideas she may have had for a while.

Youth Group Plans Week On Island

Fifteen youths of the First Presbyterian Church of Upland are hoping to study ancient Christianity firsthand this summer as they work toward a trip to Scotland.

The group -- known as the Celtic Order -- plans to spend a week on the small island of Iona off the west coast of Scotland where they will study and stay at the restored abbey founded by St. Columba in 563.

The youths plan to view on the island one of the few remaining Celtic crosses, which once numbered 360. The group has adopted the Celtic cross as its emblem.

To finance the trip for themselves and five adults, the group sold Christmas greens and held during the yule season, a spaghetti dinner in February, a pancake breakfast on Easter, and plans an ice cream social for June 4.

The biggest fund-raiser scheduled is a Scottish festival, which will be held before their hoped-for August departure.

Members of the group include Bob Berry, Nan Glenn, Sue McCrea, Connie Miller, Mary Robinson, Jim Smith, Becky and Sue Vanderwilt and Jane Warburton, all of Upland; Brian Gardener, Fiona Kennedy, Oliver MacKnight and Julie Otto of Ontario, and Debbie Ludwig of Alta Loma.

Adult counselors who will make the trip are the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Gillogly, Mr. and Mrs. Kent Kurtz, and Ian Richardson.

Civil Affairs Company Moves To Upland

The Thrall Army Reserve Center is now the home of the 426th Civil Affairs Company formerly located in San Bernardino. The move was made this weekend.

Mayor Abner Haldeman officially welcomed the unit to Upland last Sunday morning and led the unit in an invocation and prayer. Unit commander Lieutenant Colonel Robert L. Sullivan took the first formation and the color guard raised the unit's Stars and stripes on the Armory flagpole.

The 426th is a company of officers and enlisted men who come to Upland from all over southern California. This is not an active duty station however as only 15 regulars will handle the administrative operation of this unit which is unique as a training center for reservists.

The 426th Civil Affairs Unit is unique in that both men and women can participate in this training. It has the mission of training in governmental functions to assist in recovery operations after a major conflict, or to assist in stability operations in a limited war situation.

The Commander, officers and men of the 426th Civil Affairs Company are proud to be a part of the Upland community and desire that as time goes by and mutual acquaintance is achieved that the community of Upland will have reason to be proud that the 426th has been a part of the local scene.

The Upland USAR Center is located at 1284 E. 7th Street and the phone is 985-9851. Administrative personnel are on duty daily.

Hospital Hears Heart Care Talk

The last in a series of nine lectures for nurses on advanced coronary care will be held tonight from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, 1798 North Garey in Pomona.

Designed to increase the knowledge and efficiency of hospital coronary care unit and emergency room personnel, the course of lectures is part of a Heart Association program for continuing professional education. It is sponsored by the East San Gabriel Valley Division of the Los Angeles County Heart Association.

Tonight's talk will be given by Arthur Mador-sky, M.D., on exercise and rehabilitation after a heart attack. It has been found that patients whose heart attacks are under control recover more quickly with the proper exercise. The newest electronic techniques, which allow the patient's heart to be monitored by the physician during exercise, have helped the development of improved methods of treatment. Dr. Madorosky is chairman of the East San Gabriel Valley Division volunteer cabinet and medical director of General Dynamics.

The lecture is open to all coronary care and emergency room personnel, and interested physicians.

Program Scores For Space Unemployed

A senior Reagan Administration official has announced that a year-old program administered by the Department of Human Resources Development has placed 44 percent of the unemployed California engineers, scientists and technicians registered with it into jobs.

State Dairy Council Is 50

Dairy Council of California is a statewide nutrition education organization. It was founded over 50 years ago to help Californians eat better.

Working throughout the state, Dairy Council's staff of professional nutritionists offer a complete nutrition education program to educators, health professionals and community leaders.

Dairy Council is supported by the entire dairy industry, both dairy farmers and dairy firms. These dairymen recognize that people in California are suffering from malnutrition. Milk and other dairy products can help combat this problem. They are stocked with large amounts of calcium, riboflavin and protein as well as other essential nutrients.

Dairy Council developed a nutrition program, known as "Big Ideas in Nutrition Education and How to Teach Them." Education specialists at the UCLA Graduate School of Education were called in, and the resulting set of lesson plans incorporate the latest educational philosophy and teaching methods.

Technology Mobilization and Reemployment Program (TMRP).

He noted that 1,869 enrollees were placed directly into jobs through TMRP, while 4,308 became employed as a result of various types of program assistance.

"We are heartened by the progress being made as this reemployment program gains momentum," Blacher said.

"This Administration realizes, and the public must realize, that we cannot overnight come up with an immediate solution that has no easy answer."

Blacher pointed out that California began to be hard hit by reduced defense and space-related spending in 1967 as a 1967 peak of 616,200 (74,800 engineers and scientists), steadily declined to a low in 1971 with a slight rise this past year now showing 447,000.

"I believe this protracted slump in the aerospace-defense industries is over and that we will see a steady period of revival," Blacher said. "The defense budget for fiscal 1973 requests 8.4 percent more funds than the current year, and this is bound to stimulate both production and employment in California. In addition, and perhaps even more important, the winding down of the war in Vietnam means that more funds are now becoming available for highly complex equipment and research -- and this is where California is especially strong."

"But we can't perform miracles," he added. "The overall problem is complicated by the fact that the entire nation is slowly shifting from a war to a peacetime economy, and we can neither create jobs where they do not yet exist nor guarantee immediate employment for all aerospace jobless."

"What we can do is give that extra push to program such as TMRP that have shown through actual operation what they can do."

HRD provides eligible applicants with financial assistance in travel to interviews outside their local area; moving expenses to jobs beyond normal commuting range; reimburses employers for certain training costs; provides orientation and job development services.

Mobile Home Owners May Benefit From Tax

Families of moderate means who need low-cost housing -- the ones for whom mobile homes were originally intended -- stand to gain from the current proposal to shift mobilehome taxation to local tax rolls, according to Donald D. Blazer, president, the communications center, Inc., Riverside.

"The mobilehome dealers who predict the present controversy over methods of taxation will hurt sales aren't considering the advantages the local taxing method offers the two groups who need mobilehomes the most -- the young marrieds and the senior citizens," Blazer said.

A recommendation mobilehomes be shifted from the state's "in lieu" tax to the local property tax roll, just like conventional homes, was made recently by the Assembly's research office in Sacramento to the state Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Under the new proposal, owners of mobilehomes valued at less than $15,000 could take advantage of the state's $750 home owners exemption, or the $1,000 veterans exemption. Generally, this method would bring about a reduction in their taxes.

Also, those 62 years of age or over, with low incomes, would, for the first time, be able to claim a direct tax rebate from the state under the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Law, said Blazer.

"These two segments of our population--young marrieds and senior citizens, are the ones which need low cost housing the most. So the tax shift, if used properly as a marketing tool, will give them additional reasons for purchasing a mobilehome," he continued.

Under the recommendation, taxes would probably rise slightly for owners of mobilehomes valued at more than $15,000.

However, homes in this price range are usually purchased by persons who don't find the additional taxes quite so burdensome.

Blazer said studies by The Communications Center show there is an extremely large and untapped market in California for the lower priced mobilehome.

"California has generally led the nation in luxury mobilehomes and mobilehome parks.

"This market has been skimmed. Now it's time to take a new direction," he said.

Travel SAFETY

Driving with worn tires can cost more than the price of replacements. In one year almost 25% of fatal accidents along the Pennsylvania Turnpike were caused by tire troubles.

Use travelers checks to provide the equivalent of cash without the worry because they're refundable if stolen or lost. Available through most banks, none has wider world acceptance than First National Travelers Checks, which are acceptable everywhere and are refundable in more locations (30,000) around the country and overseas, than any other travelers check.

When you plan a trip to a tropical country, it's a good idea to get whatever inoculations are appropriate for the region you'll be in, whether or not the countries you're visiting require such inoculation or not. Ask your family physician about this.

EVERY DOLLAR YOU SAVE IS A BOOST TO THE ECONOMY.

Some people would have you believe that saving money is a disservice to the economy of this country. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Your money is loaned out to build new homes and churches and shopping centers, and low-cost multiple dwellings.

And that means jobs. Jobs for carpenters, bricklayers, plumbers, road-builders, painters and a host of other occupations. Jobs for the people who cut the timber, make the bricks, manufacture the plumbing materials and paint.

The list is endless. It goes on and on. Your savings working to build the economy while they are building for your future.

It has been estimated that every dollar provided by a Savings and Loan creates four dollars of new economic activity. As a result, the $38 billion we loaned in mortgages last year generated $152 billion in the economy.

Do something good for yourself. Open an account at a Savings and Loan Association. We'll put your money to work--for you and for the country.

Valley Spikers Find Competition Tough As The Heat

By JIM GULLI
Sports Editor

Three local athletes managed to fight off the competition most of the year to make it to the prestigious State Track and Field Finals meet last weekend in the California gold mining town of Oroville, but found the competition along with the environment just too much for them.

Upland High's Gordon Innes, last year's prep two-mile champion, ran a very respectable 9:07.0 during the trials last Friday evening, but had to settle for seventh place and the disappointment of not competing in the finals on Saturday. However, the super distance runner had plenty of company, as the heat and humidity took its toll on the southland's finest athletes. Innes will continue his athletic career at this year's NCAA Track Championship school, UCLA.

Bonita High's Dave Shamblin performed well enough during the Prelims on Friday in the 180 low hurdles when he made the finals with a clocking of 19.3. But the weather heated up for Saturday's finale and Dave could manage but 19.9 for a ninth place finish over Oroville's new track facility. Shamblin had managed a 19.1 during the CIF Finals in the Southern Section, so his performance at Oroville had to be a disappointment to the fine athlete who is bound for the University of Nebraska. But before Dave heads for the "Big Red" machine, he can be seen in action with the East San Gabriel Valley All-Star Football game July 6 at Citrus College for his final appearance in a prep uniform.

Marcus Gordien of Claremont High has a lifetime best throw in the discus of 180-9. Had he repeated that feat, Gordien would have locked up a second-place at the State meet. But it was not his day at Oroville. Gordien could manage but 169-5 and eighth place. The winning distance was 185-10 by Overton of Los Altos. However, Gordien has had to be a consistent performer without regular competition all year in order to make the meet to begin with. The discus is not a regular high school event; only exhibitions are permitted through the season. But when he competes in college, he's bound to improve.

In view of the number of fine athletes in the area who failed to make the meet, our hats are off to the great performances turned in by these three as well as the other high school teams from the local area. It has been a very good year.

Highlanders' Hill Wins Top Honors

Upland High School's 1972 baseball season officially closed recently when the Highlanders held their awards banquet at Griswolds in Claremont.

First baseman Dave Hill ran away with most of the honors, claiming the Most Valuable Player trophy and named as one of the three captains of the team. He held the highest seasonal batting average for the Scots with a .372, also replaced two school records during the campaign.

The Upland lefty etched his name in the Upland record books with 23 runs batted in, a record he set in the last game of the season, and the most hits in a season with 33.

Kelly Tetzlaff, second baseman for the Highlanders, was awarded the Most Improved Player honor on the varsity level. His perfect fielding record played a big part in the Scots' CIF playoff games.

Steve Tarbell, who is regarded as one of the best catchers in the San Antonio League, received the Most Inspirational award, as well as being one of the tri-captains.

Although Gary Waldron missed the stretch run of the SAL race with a broken hand, the Upland southpaw picked up the Best Pitcher award. His 8-1 seasonal record and 0.99 earned run average in league paced the Highlander pitching staff.

The other tri-captain honor went to Brian McLaughlin, who was nearly a hero in the Highlanders' final game of the year. His home run in the bottom of the seventh against Rolling Hills in the CIF playoffs kept the Scots momentarily alive. It knotted him a tie for the school's home run record for the season with four. He tied one other mark with three of the blasts coming in league play.

Other varsity lettermen included George Bribbleac, Mike Eidson, Mike Gerundo, Bill Guevara, Art Jorgensen, Gary Marvel, Mike Melenderez, Bruce Miller, Mike Scharbrough, Bob Self and Al Trudeau.

On the junior varsity level, Ken Iles was named as MVP while the co-captains were Larry Lodo and Jim Christiansen.

For the sophomore club, Steve Scott picked up the MVP award while Keith Licht claimed the Most Improved trophy.

Darrel Moser, who won the trophy for the highest batting average (.406) of any Highlander, was named as one of the captains for the JVs. Richard Phillips was the other captain.

Joe Zamudio claimed the MVP award for the frosh, while Mike Emilio and Steve Standlea were the co-captains.

Schabarum Honored

Los Angeles County Supervisor Pete Schabarum and publisher - lecturer Paul R. McDonald have been named honorary members of Alpha Sigma Epsilon at California State Polytechnic University at Pomona.

Alpha Sigma Epsilon, the academic honor society at the university, selects annually a maximum of two persons from the private sector as honorary members and two faculty members as regular members.

Faculty chosen were Dr. John B. O'Hara, dean of continuing education and director of Kellogg West, and Dr. Douglas C. Dowell, director of educational services.

Schabarum was selected for the honor because of his contributions to the legislative field and "earned this distinction as a matter of right as opposed to any political consideration," according to Paul F. Welland, advisor of the honor society.

Schabarum served in the state Assembly for five years before his appointment several months ago to the Board of Supervisors. In 1965 he was foreman of the L. A. County Grand Jury.

Procurement Associates in Covina, was chosen for his contributions to publishing in the area of aerospace contracts.

Senior Volunteer Program Promoted

The chairman of the California Commission on Aging has announced that a major effort was being made to promote and expand a program for the state's retirement-age citizens.

Ms. A.M.G. Russell said that information statements about the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), a national program designed to develop significant volunteer service in local communities for persons of retirement age, are being mailed to local Commissions on Aging, senior citizen clubs, civic clubs and other interested groups.

"Our RSVP should have a tremendous appeal for the retired members of California's 2.5 million over-60 age group," Ms. Russell said. "It offers older adults a recognized role in the community and a meaningful life in retirement through volunteer service."

She explained that the Senior Volunteers serve in a variety of organizations, agencies and institutions such as courts, schools, parks, museums, libraries, hospitals, day-care centers, nursing homes, scout offices, economic development agencies and other community-service outlets.

Ms. Russell pointed out that the RSVP offered the older retired citizens "an unique opportunity to remain involved in the life of their country, to continue using the skills and insights developed over many years." She noted that, as in any traditional volunteer program, senior volunteers serve without compensation, although they are reimbursed for such expenses as meals and transportation.

The chairman said that each RSVP is planned, organized and operated on the local level. A grant is made to an established non-profit, community-service organization or public agency that is able to generate local financial support and that is dedicated to the development and long-term operation of the program.

"Local organizations are the heart of the RSVP," she said. "These grantees should have prior experience in program administration and be widely exposed and deeply committed to the special needs and abilities of older adults."

Ms. Russell explained that a grant for a Retired Senior Volunteer Program is made on a cost-sharing basis.

This means that the organization applying will provide an acceptable plan to steadily increase local support as Federal support gradually decreases and terminates at the end of the project period, usually five years. At this time, it is expected that the activity will be continued by the local community without outside financial support.

"Funds for the RSVP are available and applications for grants are now being accepted," Ms. Russell said. She noted that organizations or agencies interested in information regarding grants should contact:

David Baxter, Executive Director
California Commission on Aging
800 Capitol Mall
Sacramento, CA 95814

Phone (Sacto.) 916/445-8822.

Phone (L.A.) 213/744-2203.

The Retired Senior Volunteer Program, currently budgeted for $15 million, is a member of ACTION, the new government agency that unites all the federal volunteer agencies into one single effort.

Other programs under ACTION are Peace Corps Volunteers; VISTA; Foster Grandparents; Retired Executives (SCORE) and Active Executives

Mikesell Wins

Daniel D. Mikesell, vice chairman of the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors and former mayor of Ontario, has been elected as one of 15 directors of the state-wide California Water Resources Association.

He succeeds the late John B. Surr, prominent water attorney.

Mikesell, who will represent his county on the CWRA board, is a director of the County Supervisors Association, a charter vice president of the California Wildlife Association and president of the West End Fish and Game Association.

The California Water Resources Association is a non-profit, non-partisan citizens organization dedicated to the balanced development of water resources of California and the West, to meet the needs of man and improve his environment.

Selected as voting alternates for Mikesell were John M. Bernard, public works administrator of San Bernardino County; Jack Beaver, general manager of the San Bernardino Water District; and Carl B. Masingale, president of the Chino Basin Municipal Water District.

YOUR GARDEN

SOME FRUITFUL IDEAS

Fruit bushes and dwarf trees do have some capacity to resist disease, although they are relatively helpless against a plague of insects. What can you do about diseases and bugs?

First off, it will help to combat both if you keep your trees and bushes clean. All trash, dropped fruit, broken branches, twigs, etc., should be removed and burned to kill the spores of

Keep the area around each bush or dwarf tree cultivated and free of weeds. Diseases flourish in warm, moist and windless places. You may not be able to do much about sunshine and rain, but it's often possible to plant a bush or dwarf tree so that it gets a fair amount of breeze.

That is why so much of the spray program is best concentrated in the first weeks of the growing season. One of the most important things you can do to help your bushes and dwarf trees bear more fruit is to use an all-purpose insecticide every two weeks throughout the growing season. One of the most effective, broad-spectrum insecticides used for this purpose is Spectracide, containing diazinon. It not only stops over 120 common varieties of bugs on dwarf trees and bushes, but also in gardens, lawns, and on patios. In spraying, it's essential to cover the plant thoroughly, so that bugs on the underside of the leaves get it too.

Controller Says Tax Relief Need Grows

Despite more than $1.1 billion of local property tax relief payments by the State in less than three years, the "need and demand for further property tax relief" continues to grow, State Controller Houston L. Flournoy has said.

State payments to individuals and local government so far in Fiscal Year 1971-72 have hit their highest annual level since the first tax relief program was authorized by the 1967 Legislature and payments were started in 1968-69.

"Almost complete payments for this year total $361,618,812 and that is well ahead of the previous high of $316,417,431 in 1970-71," said Flournoy. "When the liberalized provisions of the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance program are met in 1972-73, the total probably will rise considerably," The Controller reported.

"The continuing need and demand for further property tax relief beyond this already substantial program gives a clear indication of how great the property tax burden is throughout the State."

"Direct payments and exemptions for homeowners have accounted for over $860 million of the total, and this year alone the homeowners exemptions will account for about $240 million," Flournoy said.

The property tax relief payments began in 1968-69 when $179,327,083 in Homeowners Property Tax Relief was paid out mostly in the form of $70 payments direct to individual homeowners, and many homeowners also qualified for the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance which came to $7,817,741 that year.

The Homeowners Relief program became a $750 exemption from assessed valuation in 1969-70 and resulted in the State paying $199,693,836 to local government to make up tax losses caused by the exemptions. In 1970-71 this totaled $217,309,913, and so far this year has reached $231,591,872.

The Senior Citizens Tax Assistance totaled $7,858,999 in 1969-70, and $8,575,972 in 1970-71. It stands at $8,299,382 so far this year and some increase is expected before June 30. Liberalized qualifications for this assistance are expected to more than quadruple the number of eligibles and greatly increase the expenditure starting in 1972-73.

The Personal Property Tax Relief program for business inventories in 1969-70 began reimbursing local governments for property tax losses resulting from exemptions on business inventories. This totaled $46,532,426 the first year, reached $88,036,624 in 1970-71, and so far this year stands at $118,317,221.

Summer Registration Now Open

Claremont

Registration for the summer program at the Claremont College's Educational Development Center is now open, with two courses being offered by the non-profit institution.

One is a course on reading and effective study for elementary, junior high and senior high school students. Classes meet for 90-minute sessions five afternoons a week, June 19-July 28.

The course is designed to improve reading speed, comprehension, flexibility and recall, and offers individual evaluation, tutoring, and special training in listening, notetaking, vocabulary development and other important learning skills.

The other course, for college students, adults and upper division high school students meets Tuesday and Thursday evenings, 7-9 p.m., from June 20 through August 10.

Learning techniques of pre-reading, skimming and scanning, use of and scanning, use of author's structure, key words or phrases, getting meaning at different levels and effective study reading with dependable recall are stressed. Some scholarships are available.

UCLA

A trio of four-unit summer classes on information processing will be offered by UCLA Extension, beginning the week of June 19, 7-9:30 p.m., on the UCLA campus.

"Computer Applications: Lumped Parameter Systems" will meet Mondays and Thursdays, June 19 through August 10, in Room 2444 Boelter Hall. The course will comprise a comprehensive survey of the application of analog and digital computers in solving engineering problems governed by ordinary differential equations.

Instructing will be Leon Levine, lecturer in UCLA School of Engineering and Applied Science. The fee is $80.

"Information Processing Systems" is scheduled for Mondays and Wednesdays, beginning June 19 in Room 3760 Boelter Hall. Topics for study will include information processing algorithms, digital storage and operator elements, Boolean algebra, and combinational and sequential logic nets.

Other sessions will deal with the technology of digital circuits, digital computer organization and analogue techniques for information processing.

Dr. Wesley W. Chu, UCLA assistant professor of engineering and applied science, will instruct the class. The fee is $80.

Programming languages, in particular FORTRAN, ALGOL, COBOL and PL/I, will be compared and evaluated in "programming Languages and Systems," Tuesdays and Thursdays, June 20 to August 15, in Room 3760 Boelter Hall. In addition to those commercially available, some special purpose languages will be examined. Dr. Arnold O. Allen, senior instructor at the IBM Systems Science Institute will also present the basic principles of programming systems. The fee is $95.

Recognizing and avoiding potential legal problems will be emphasized in a UCLA Extension course, "Law in Everyday Life," that begins June 21.

Attorney Ronald C. Bain will be the instructor.

The class will meet from 7:30-10 p.m. on eight Wednesdays in Bunche Hall at UCLA.

Common legal problems that will be analyzed include contracts, wills, real estate, property, domestic relations, criminal law, business organization and taxes.

John M. Lilley, whose promotion from Assistant to Associate Professor of Music at Claremont Men's, Harvey Mudd, Pitzer and Scripps Colleges takes effect July 1, 1972, will be on sabbatical leave for the fall of 1972.

Lilley leaves for Europe on August 1, to confer with conductors to prepare major works for conducting and to attend a music institute on performance practice.

"I've selected certain European cities on the basis of their importance to music history and their current level of performance activity, as well as for the accessibility of conductors," Lilley said.

Scripps

Director of the Concert Choir of CMC, HMC, Pitzer and Scripps Colleges, Lilley currently serves as vicepresident and member of the executive board of the Southern California Choral Association.

A past president of the Pacific Southwest Intercollegiate Choral Association, Lilley frequently gives preview lectures for the Los Angeles Philharmonic and Los Angeles Master Chorale in the Los Angeles area.

A faculty member of the four colleges since 1966, Lilley received his B.M. and M.M. from Baylor University and his D.M.A. from the University of Southern California.

He is a member of the Choral Conductors Guild of California, the American Choral Directors Association, Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, Omicron Delta Kappa, the Southern California Vocal Music Association and the American Choral Foundation.

The Cal State Cal-Poly Pomona Teacher Preparation Center, in cooperation with Phonovisual Products, Inc., Rockville, Md., is offering a special three-day workshop in phonovisual teacher training Tuesday through Thursday, June 20-22 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily in the Cal Poly music building, room 101. The phonovisual method, a scientifically structured method of teaching phonics based on the use of two pictorial charts, develops reading, spelling, speech, and writing skills. The two-unit workshop is designed to train teachers in the philosophy, instructional techniques and thorough application of this method.
